

Cookie Notice

JobCloud uses cookies and other similar tracking technologies, including third-party technologies on JobCloud's websites, apps, email communications and other online services. They are used to enable, enhance, personalize, and analyse the use of our services and for purposes of personalized advertising. This Cookie Notice explains what these technologies are and why and how we use them, as well as your rights to control our use of them. Please also refer to our Privacy Policy to learn how we process personal data relating to you.

Tracking technologies we use

Our websites may use cookies, web beacons, pixel, plug-ins, analytics tools and other similar technologies, including third-party technologies (collectively referred to as "Tracking Technologies") which allow us and third parties to track your use of our website.

"Cookies" are small text files that are placed and stored on your browser or your device when you visit our websites or use our apps. Our websites may place session and persistent cookies on your device. "Session cookies" are cookies that typically last for as long as you are using your browser or browser session. When you end your browser session, the cookie expires. Session cookies are used, for example, to store your login information during your visit to the website.

"Persistent" cookies will last after you close your browser. This allows, for example, for quicker and often more convenient access to our website. Permanent cookies are used for automatic login, for example, if expressly requested by the user during the registration process.

Our websites may place first-party cookies and allow third parties to place cookies on your device. "First-party" cookies are cookies set by JobCloud. In addition, our websites use external services, which also set their own cookies, known as "third-party" cookies. All third parties who process usage data on our behalf are contractually committed to measures to ensure the security and confidentiality of the data processed.

"Pixel tags" (also called beacons) are small blocks of code placed on webpages, apps, emails or ads that enable us to identify users when providing our services and track interactions with our platforms and apps.

"Software Development Kits" (also called "SDKs") are blocks of code that function like cookies and pixel tags, for mobile apps. SDKs allow to collect information about the device and network you use to access our applications and about your interaction with our applications.

"Local storage" refers to files that are created by apps or websites and stored on your device or browser. Such files function similarly to cookies.

Log files: When you visit our platforms, general access data is stored in a log file for statistical purposes. Such log information includes the following items: IP address, date and time of access, name of the file retrieved access status (OK, partial content, document not found, etc.), page from which access occurred, top level domain (*.ch etc.), web browser used, operating system used, platform used (desktop or mobile). JobCloud processes such data in anonymized form, for example, to determine which days have an especially high number of visits. No personalized evaluation of the log files is made.

Google Consent Mode: JobCloud uses Google Consent Mode to estimate the performance of our marketing campaigns and user behaviour. Google Consent Mode will send cookie-less pings to the Google servers regardless of the cookie consent preferences. Cookie-less pings, as part of regular HTTP/browser communication, may include the following information: IP address, screen size and resolution, browser info, your location (country), preferred language setting, websites/subpages visited, interactions with website elements (clicks, scrolls, mouse movements), date and time of access to the website and its sub-pages.

ActiveCampaign

When you register for our newsletter, we process your personal data. We use Active Campaign, an email marketing provider for planning, execution, management and evaluation of our email campaigns. The software focuses on email marketing, marketing automation and CRM automation. With help of ActiveCampaign we can optimise our marketing and sales processes. When you open an email sent with Active Campaign, a file contained in the email (a so-called web beacon) connects to Active Campaign's servers in the USA. This makes it possible to determine whether a newsletter message has been opened and which links, if any, have been clicked on. In addition, technical information is recorded (e.g. time of retrieval, IP address, browser type and operating system). This information cannot be assigned to the respective newsletter recipient. It is used exclusively for the statistical analysis of newsletter campaigns. The results of these analyses can be used to better adapt future newsletters to the interests of the recipients. If you do not want any analysis by ActiveCampaign, you must unsubscribe from the newsletter. To do this, we provide a corresponding link in every newsletter message.

Geolocation API

The Geolocation API allows the user to provide their location to web applications if they so desire. If by searching for a job on a website of JobCloud you would like to find the nearest jobs to your location, you can activate the "update my location" function. By clicking on it you agree that JobCloud may use your IP address transmitted by your browser to use our website to roughly determine your location (location determination) in order to be able to display the jobs next to your place (Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a GDPR).

The Geolocation API is accessed via a call to navigator.geolocation; this will cause the user's browser to ask for permission to access location data. Once permission is given the browser uses the best available functionality on the device to access this information (for example, GPS).

Mobile Apps

For the mobile apps of JobCloud, available via the Google Play Store and the Apple Appstore, the following information of tracking technology applies. For tracking in apps "Software Development Kits" (SDKs) are being used for the collection of information about app usage, e.g. number of sessions on an app, from where in the world users are logged in from, how many times an app is crashing, what operating systems and devices are running the app and how many times certain app features are used. Custom metrics can be created through the SDKs that allow developers to track data such as how users with specific attributes interact with an app, or how long it takes users to reach a custom-defined goal. Developers can then use this data to improve the app. Technical issues can be discovered and fixed, such as frequent app crashing. Unpopular features can be removed or updated to get more use.
